positive social behavior and morality social and personal influences volume i presents the broad range of influences that encourage or inhibit people to behave positively towards others and how varied forms of positive behavior are determined the book examines the various aspects of positive social behavior it starts by providing the definition significance and relationship of positive or prosocial behavior to morality topics on why people behave prosocially the determinants of people helping other people in physical distress effects of harm doing on prosocial behavior the limitations of current methods the goals for future study in the field of prosocial behavior and a theoretical model for predicting prosocial behavior are presented as well psychologists sociologists researchers and students in the field of sociology and psychology will find this book interesting in this book ellis argues that moral and political objectives are not independent of one other and so must be pursued in tandem social humanism is a moral and political philosophy that does just this as a political philosophy it justifies the implementation and maintenance of many of the characteristic social policies of welfare states as a moral philosophy it provides the foundation required for most human rights legislation to this end ellis elaborates on the theory of social humanism and the need to reconsider the metaphysical foundations of morals he develops the theory of social idealism as a meta theory for both morals and social policy exploring the global consequences of this new approach a controversial inquiry into the origins of human values this book argues that a major part of the chinese government s road map formulated in 2017 to modernise china comprehensively by 2049 is the process of social disciplining it contends that the chinese state sees that modernisation and modernity encompass not only economic and political administrative change but are also related to the organisation of society in general and the disciplining of this society and its individuals to create people with modernised minds and behaviour and that moreover the chinese state is aspiring to a modernity with chinese characteristics the question of modernising by disciplining was extensively dealt with in the twentieth century by leading western social scientists including max weber norbert elias and michel foucault who argued that disciplining extending from external coercion towards the internalisation of restraints is indispensable for achieving social order and thereby for civilisation but defined from a european perspective in relation to developments in europe this book therefore not only discusses the chinese experience of social disciplining but also by looking at a non western society identifies universal tendencies of societal change and social disciplining and separates them from particular occurrences this book provides a new and wide ranging study of law s normativity examining conceptual descriptive and empirical dimensions of this perennial philosophical issue it also contains essays concerned with among other issues the relationship between semantic and legal normativity methodological concerns pertaining to understanding normativity normativity and legal interpretation and normativity as it pertains to transnational law the contributors come not only from the usual anglo american and western european community of legal theorists but also from latin american and eastern european communities representing a diversity of perspectives and points of view including essays from both analytic and continental methodologies with this range of topics the book will appeal to scholars in transnational law legal sociology normative legal philosophy concerned with problems of state legitimacy and practical rationality as well as those working in general jurisprudence it comprises a highly important contribution to the study of law s normativity
